ABOUT LA VERNIA

La Vernia, Texas, was settled in the 1850s, known for its rich agricultural land and early settlers, including German and Polish immigrants. The town's name likely comes from the Spanish "la verna," meaning "green oaks," reflecting the region's landscape. Established in 1859 with the creation of its post office, La Vernia grew as a farming and ranching community. Today, it preserves its small-town charm and history through landmarks like the La Vernia Heritage Museum and local events such as the Bluebonnet Parade and Hometown Hoedown.
